Deputy Roderic Marques noted in his report that he knocked on the trailer door because it was locked.

The windows, he said, were covered.

Underneath the trailer were two Honda generators, and beside them was a blue plastic container that had a hose in it that stretched to the trailer.

Opening a window, Marques said, the odor was strong and flies attempted to escape.

The deputy called for backup.

When officials first entered the green pickup, they found an empty gun holster, a small black travel diary and a key.

The key did not fit the trailer's lock, so, using a metal object, deputies opened the door and found the couple on the bed.

Haynes said the couple celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary in May and that they met as students in Arizona.

She said they loved each other deeply and were "as much in love today as they were 30 years ago."

She said they kept in contact through e-mail and by phone and that the last time she heard from her brother was two weeks ago.

They were very close, even as kids, she said and he loved CB radio, fishing and hunting and was a devout Christian.

Growing up, because he had red hair and freckles, he got teased, but overcame that, Haynes said.

She said the couple got Dolly as a pup, at a yard sale. Dolly could do many tricks, she said, including acrobatics.

Haynes said Dolly loved it when the couple went to restaurants and brought back doggie bags, and that the little canine really loved iced tea.

Strobo said he plans to have his parents cremated and sprinkle their ashes in the Texas hills.
